“ You were the first true love and I am so heartbroken to hear about your passing. I knew you for so long and it seems weird that you're not around any more. Although we went our separate ways, I always cared about you and wished you well. I just can't believe you're really gone. I had always hoped that one day you could meet my son and be an uncle to him. I'll treasure every memory I have of you. You were so brilliant, you knew so many things and consistently surprised me. We had so many wonderful adventures together and I got to know you almost as well as I knew myself. I wish I could've spoken to you before this. There's never going to be enough words, or the right words, to express how shattered everyone is that you're gone. Everyone I know, including myself, have been in tears since they heard the news. I'm sorry you felt so alone and so sad. You're forever in my heart and soul.

“ I cannot describe how devastated I am to hear about your passing. You were an awesome person, and I will always cherish the time you were in my life. I remember when I met you close to 10 years ago. I will always remember all the good times we had, and how much having you in my life was a blessing. I will always remember you. You were a dear friend, and I loved you like a son. I so wish things could have been different. You will be immensely missed. May you rest in peace.

“ Allen has shown me so much of life that now it seems rather unenjoyable without him here. You couldn't even begin to imagine his knowledge of history, as well as taking care of animals and his knowledge of computers. When he strummed his guitar, life was filled with color and meaning and it seemed a little bit more bearable. He seemed a bit cold when you first meet him but his smile warmed so many's hearts and I will never forget it. He was kind and so sincere and you'll never meet someone quite like him. At all. He will forever be missed; he will forever be a huge part of life.
