“ Chris Norman was one of the most amazing man that I have ever known. We didnt really spend a lot of time together but we talked on the phone almost every weekday for two years when he was in his masters program. He had the rare combination of being an astute businessman and a social worker. He loves Jesus more than anything and he love gods people. I miss him but now that he is still in risking my life. “ Chris popped into my mind today, so I decided to do a search for him. I'm so sad to hear of his passing. Chris and I were housemates in Knoxville for a couple of years back in the 90s, but lost touch when I left town. I always enjoyed Chris's company, his laid-back attitude, and his sense of humor, and am grateful for the time we were able to spend together.
