“ To ALL my family! We will deeply miss mom(granny), (gran-gran, by Noah @ just before age 1). Keep all your memories alive by sharing them with your children, grandchildren, & great grandchildren, & especially your friends that never got the opportunity to meet her!! pass by places where mom has lived & tears come to my eyes. The last resident she had I(Pruitt Health Sylvester, GA) I will pass by daily to transport my children & grandchildren to school. I think of the visits we had while she was there. (Having to see her & talk through the windows). We laughed & talked about going fishing when she got better.Now I will have to wait till I get to Heaven to go fishing with her, on the banks of GLORY!If you do know the LORD as your personal savior you will NOT be blessed with the opportunity to see her again!Love you ALL! “ Ohh Granny.. where do I even begin?! 😭 How bout you driving us through orange groves with us hanging out the windows, grabbing as many oranges off the trees as we could, also as quick as we could before anyone called the law 🙄.. or you telling me stories about how you would carve all your boyfriend's names into the steering wheel of that famous van of yours and when y'all split up, you crossed their names out (which I got to see) lol 😂 or what about those two weeks my sister Brittany and I stayed with you, in Georgia.. we stayed up ALL night playing your favorite card game SKIP-BO 💕.. not to mention, you also made me pluck the hairs off your chin with tweezers!!! 😬 Hahaha.. I LOVE reminiscing about all my childhood memories that have YOU in them! The MAIN memory I cherished the MOST, was how you never stopped spreading your love for all the children in our family, with them darn beanie babies!!! 🧸🧸 No matter how old, we were never too old for a stuffed animal! LOL Knowing what I know now, I really wish I'd had kept up with mine 😭😭😭 It's been a many years since we last seen one another, but the footprints you left on my heart, will never fade away!! 🙏💕 Wish I could have seen you one last time, but God has bigger and better plans for you up there..💔 I LOVE YOU GRANNY!! REST IN PARADISE 🙏

“ I remember Granny coming to get me and my sister Ashley to stay the weekend with her. She drove an old green van with only a driver and passenger seat😭. We'd stay up all night long playing Uno cards and telling stories. She was a trip man. For me to have last seen her around the age 5 and I'm soon to be 25, she definitely left a mark of memories to cherish forever. I'll never forget them that's for sure. Rest in paradise Granny. You'll be missed 😭💕

“ I will always remember mom wanting to go fishing every chance she could. We should go camping at lakes, creeks, and rivers. I really enjoyed it when I would get to go and check the trot lines that were put out. I love you Mom and I hope your catching enough for dinner.
