

Linda Carlton Yarbrough

November 12, 1953 - June 12, 2025

Linda Carlton Yarbrough, 71, of Moultrie, Georgia, passed away peacefully on June 12, 2025, surrounded by love.

Born and raised in Moultrie on November 12, 1953, Linda attended ABAC in Tifton before settling in Sandhill, where, with her husband Blaine, she helped cultivate the land and raise their two children. She spent many years as a medical transcriptionist at CRMC, but her greatest gifts were found in how she loved—fiery and unwavering, tempered with a salty wit and a sweet Southern charm.

She was a masterful storyteller, a soulful cook, and a lifelong lover of music—a woman of deep faith who found solace in the pages of her Bible, the keys of her piano, and the art of crafting handmade gifts for those she loved. Her infectious laugh came easily and often, and she could rarely resist moving her feet to the beat of an old R&B song.

She is survived by her son, Jason Yarbrough; her daughter, Anna Yarbrough; and her beloved granddaughters, Lera Putnal and Charleigh Yarbrough, who knew her as Nana; her mother, Virginia McCoy; her siblings, William Taylor, Mike Carlton, and Lisa Donalson; her nieces and nephews, Savannah and Suzanne Taylor, Abbey Revell, Emily Carlton, Micheal Rocco Ennulat, Robert Taylor, Gabe Carlton, Jared and Jake Donalson; and her stepmother, Ellen Carlton.

She was preceded in death by her father, Curtis Carlton; her former husband and lifelong friend, Blaine Yarbrough; and her sister-in-law, Sally Taylor.

A Celebration of Life will be held for her (date to be announced). In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Archbold Cancer Center in her honor.
