

Stanley Wayne Johnson

November 25, 1963 - January 28, 2025

Stanley Wayne Johnson, a man of unwavering candor and integrity, is survived by his beloved daughter, Jasmine Johnson, and son, Mikel Cruthfield. He is also survived by his brothers, Willie C. Johnson, Glenn Johnson, Larry Johnson, Jerry Johnson, Greg Johnson, and Tracy Johnson Thomas, as well as his sister, Peggy Johnson. Stanley was deeply supported throughout his illness by his cousin, Theodore Pettiford, whose presence brought him much comfort.

Though Stanley had too many friends to name, he was unwavering in his commitment to their genuine friendships. He treasured his nieces and nephews, dedicating countless hours to teaching them to fish, hunt, cook, and, of course, barbecue—where his skills were those of a true Pit Master.

Stanley relied on his oldest sister, Tracy, to keep him grounded, a relationship that reflected his deep respect for family. Known for his strong yet tender heart, Stanley had a rare ability to leave a lasting smile on the faces of all who encountered him. He was a steadfast confidant, always forthright in his words, never shying away from the truth, but always speaking with the best intentions for those he cared about.

A true outdoorsman at heart, Stanley found solace in nature, preferring the tranquility of hunting and fishing to the hustle and bustle of city life. In the great outdoors, he felt most at home.

Born the youngest of ten brothers, Stanley grew up with an adventurous and mischievous spirit. His playful pranks on his older siblings shaped the strong-willed, determined man he became—one who faced challenges head-on yet always showed deep compassion toward others.

Stanley Wayne Johnson will be missed dearly. He will be remembered for his authenticity, his love of nature, and the joy he brought to all who knew him. His legacy of honesty, strength, and kindness will forever live on in the hearts of his family and friends.
